Managing Repository Channels
In your Repository click then Settings under the Herzum Mattermost Amplifier.

Repository Channels, like Project Channels in Project Settings, can have notification policies.

If no repository channels are configured, then project channels are used for notifications.

To set a Mattermost channel as a Repository Channel click

Repository Channels, like Project Channels in Project Settings, can have notification policies.

If no repository channels are configured, then project channels are used for notifications.
Click on the desired team to show the channels available for that team.

Click the Enabled toggle button to enable the channel.